The internet should remain open and free. It is not right for companies to be able to throttle or limit. The internet should be an open source not controlled by major corporations.